

Contents

Series Foreword vii

Preface ix

Acknowledgments xv

Introduction xvii

Intermezzo: Sugar and Slaves, Navigation and Cartography,
Deixis and Representationalism xxxv

I Minds, Brains, and Biology 1

1 How Did We Get Here? 3

2 The Biology of Cognition 15

3 What Was Cybernetics? 41

4 Giant Brains of the Military-Industrial Complex 65

5 The Rise of Artificial Intelligence 89

6 Gravity Drowned: The Collapse of Computationalism 107

7 Complexity, Nonlinear Dynamics, and
Self-Organizing Systems 127

8 Artificial Life: Emergence and Machine Creativity 141

9 Rethinking Cognitivism 161

II A Body of Knowledge 179

10 Mindful Bodies 181

11 The New Cognitive Science—Embodied, Embedded, Enactive 193

12 Mind, Body, World 215

13 Mind beyond Brain: Extending Cognition
beyond the Individual 239

14 Tools, Cognition, and Skill 253

15 Representation 279

16 Consciousness, Selfhood, and the Cognitive Unconscious 297

III	Toward an Aesthetics of Behavior	313
17	Postcognitivism and the Aesthetics of Behavior	315
18	The Trouble with Computers	329
19	The Roots of New Media Art	343
20	A Critical Aesthetics of Performative Technologies	355
21	Applying Postcognitivist Approaches to Arts and Cultural Practices	373
22	Embodiment and Interaction	393
23	Improvisation, Interaction, and Play	401
24	The Representational, the Performative, and the Processual	411
25	Theory and Practice	421
	Epilogue: Art, Cognition, Disciplinarity, and Institutions	427
	Notes	443
	References	461
	Index	489